Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Tuesday 19 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A dullday with periods of rain, heaviest in south.

Today:
An overcast day with periods of rain affecting all, most persistent and heavy to the south of Lough Neagh. Winds light and variable in direction. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Tonight:
Remaining unsettled and cloudy with periods of rain and summit snow, heaviest across southern areas. Towards dawn outbreaks turning more showery in nature from the west. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Wednesday:
Rather cloudy start with showery rain and summit snow. Gradually turning drier, brighter from late morning and through the afternoon. However feeling much colder than Tuesday as northwest winds develop. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Showers of rain and snow spreading across area on northerly winds Thursday and Friday. Outbreaks dwindling Saturday, then rain feeding to the south later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.